

Are you ready to increase your exercise or should you see your doctor first? Physical Activity Readiness Questionnaire (PAR-Q)*

For most people physical activity should not pose any problem or hazard. PAR-Q has been designed to identify adults for whom physical activity might be inappropriate or those who should have medical advice concerning the type of activity most suitable for them before beginning or changing their exercise program.

Please read carefully and answer yes or no to each question.
Common sense is your best guide in answering these questions.

If you answered YES to one or more questions:

Consult with your personal health care provider by telephone or in person before increasing your physical activity. We have enclosed a medical release form on the next page for your convenience. Contact the Live Well/Work Well department if you have any questions.

If you answered NO to all questions:

If you answered the PAR-Q accurately, you should have reasonable assurance of your present suitability for an exercise program.
